CLOSER RELATIONS BETWEEN HOUSE AND GOVERNOR PLANNED

Cooperation Welcomed by Executive and Legislators at Pinkham's Dinner

Cordial relations between the executive and legislative branches of the government were expressed and forecast at the dinner given by Governor Pinkham last evening at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper in honor of the members of the house of representatives. An atmosphere of "Jeffersonian simplicity" marked the occasion. Appreciating the honor of being the guests of the governor early in the session of the legislative body, the legislators were at the same time made to feel very much at home and free from the restraint of excessive formalities.

The whole tenor of the remarks by the officials was for "getting together" for the general welfare and progressive development of the territory of Hawaii. Not a partisan or factional note was sounded during the evening. No one suggested that during the session there would be no difference of opinion but it was felt that should it be necessary to agree to disagree it would be done good-naturally.

Governor Pinkham, in welcoming his guests, made "get together" the text of his very brief and cordial remarks. The speechmaking was not extensive, but what there was of it went forward under the direction of Speaker Holstein as toastmaster.

The speaker responded in kind to the governor's introductory remarks and announced that as an evidence of the good will of the house of representatives, it had been decided that the chairman of the house committees shall hold conference with the governor at stated periods convenient to all concerned to the end that the house through its chosen leaders of committees may at all times be in touch with the executive and the executive acquainted with the aims of the house. This was especially gratifying to the governor, who looks upon it as an important step for advancing the work of the session rapidly and efficiently.

Representative Crockett of Maui was called upon by the speaker to respond for the house of representatives. He took for his text the importance of the servant and representative of the people effacing himself, so to speak, in his work for the common good of all the people. He presented the situation of the legislators clearly and with well chosen words. On behalf of the house he expressed confidence in the intention and ability of all to cooperate with the executive for sincere and efficient work for the best interests of Hawaii as we see them today.

Editor R. O. Matheson of the Advertiser, called on to speak for the press, took a timely topic, the ravages of tuberculosis among the native Hawaiian people. Mr. Matheson presented to the legislators in convincing form the great importance of proper consideration for the fight against tuberculosis to save the lives of the people, especially Hawaiians. He pointed out that the death rate among Hawaiian children is appalling. He gave figures showing that tuberculosis causes the death of more people in Hawaii than any other form of disease, and the great majority of those claimed by this disease are Hawaiians. Matters of taxes or the price of labor on the roads are in Mr. Matheson's mind insignificant importance when compared with the conditions of health that are facing Hawaiian citizens today. It was a convincing statement listened to with great interest.

W. B. Farrington was called upon on a sort of roving commission. Taking his text from the views so ably presented by Representative Crockett he seconded the motion of Mr. Matheson by pointing to the important part played by education in working out the practical ideals of an American community with great responsibilities.

Governor Pinkham was called on by the Speaker for the closing speech. This was short and to the point. Governor Pinkham expressed his appreciation of the plan outlined by the speaker for providing conferences between the heads of committees and the governor. He considered this to be a splendid move for advancing work along the lines of the best understanding and therefore of the least friction. He told the members of the house that as matters came up he would present his views in special messages on particular points so that there should be a clear understanding on each subject which he deemed necessary to bring before the law-makers.

Following the dinner a pleasant social hour was enjoyed, the members relieving the cares of state with some very fine Hawaiian solos and choruses in which Representative Isenberg, Representative Crawford, Representative Makekau and Secretary Thayer were leaders.

NEED OF MORE FUNDS FOR WORK AT VOLCANO TOLD IN LECTURE

Prof. Jagger Points Out Practical Value of Observation; Talk of Much Interest

A talk of absorbing interest, whether the hearer were a layman or of a scientific turn of mind, was given last night by Prof. T. A. Jagger, director of the volcanological research work at Kilauea and one of the world-leaders in this branch of study and observation. Before a group of interested persons at the Library of Hawaii he talked of the subterranean influences manifested in volcanic flows and outbreaks, with particular reference to Hawaiian volcanoes, and made it very clear that observation and recording of the phenomena at Kilauea, for instance, have a practical bearing.

Prof. Jagger illustrated his talk with illuminated slides bearing on the general subject, showing pictures of Kilauea, Mokuaweweeo and the Japanese volcano of Sakurajima, the latter being shown in eruption.

Upon the needs of volcano research work in Hawaii, he was definite and convincing. He asked the members of the Hawaiian Volcano Research Association to assist in securing the funds necessary to carry along the work in an adequate manner. Much hard work in the past, including personal work on his part, had provided the funds but there is danger of the needed $5000 not being secured for next year. He praised the cooperation of Governor Pinkham. He pointed out the value to the country of detailed observation of volcanic phenomena, enabling the observer to gain knowledge of causes and base predictions for the future.

His description of the ebb and flow of volcanic material was vivid. He intimated that in 1918 Mokuaweweeo is likely to be active again.

He told of the need of a permanent shelter house at Kilauea crater and of a more numerous staff to carry out continuous observations.

Inauguration of a system whereby those desiring certain books can arrange to have them held at the library for a reasonable length of time featured the meeting of the board of trustees of the library yesterday.

If you want a certain book and the desk clerk at the library tells you it is "out," you can buy postcards for five cents, good for two books, and as soon as the book is returned to the library the postcards are mailed to your address and the book held 36 hours. If you fall the call for the reserved book within the 36 hours, the book is given to the next applicant, the cards being filled in the order in which they are purchased. That is the gist of the new system. No reservations will be made by telephone.

SPECIALIST EXPLAINS THE CAUSE OF STOMACH TROUBLE

Valuable Advice to Sufferers.

"There are many different forms of stomach trouble," said a well-known specialist recently, "but practically all are traceable to excessive acidity and food fermentation. That is why the results obtained from the use of drugs are usually so disappointing. Admitting fermentation and consequent acidity of the food contents to be the underlying cause of most forms of indigestion, it naturally follows that the use of a reliable antacid, such as the pure, bisurated magnesia which is so frequently prescribed by physicians, will produce better results than any known drug or combination of drugs. Accordingly I almost invariably advise those who complain of digestive trouble, to get some bisurated magnesia (note the name carefully, as other forms are unsuitable for this purpose) from their druggist, and take from one to two teaspoonfuls of the powder, or two 5 grain compressed tablets, with a little water after meals. This by immediately neutralizing the acid and stopping the fermentation, removes the cause of all the trouble and insures normal and healthy digestion." —For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Chambers Drug Co. and Hollister Drug Co.—Ady.
